John Locke, a well-to-do colored farmer of Missouri township, had bills printed at the COURIER office, Tuesday, advertising a public sale of personal property, consisting of live stock, farming implements and his household and kitchen furniture, for Friday, March 17th. John has sold his farm to Guy Hurt, and has made arrangements to move to Jackson county, where he intends to engage in farming near Kansas City.

The Long Island liquor cure will cure any case of drunkenness, positively. For information call on or address Dr. B. Hughes or E. L. Nolting, Keytesville.

A Wabash engineer, whose name we have been unable to learn, fell from the tender of his engine at Keytesville station last Thursday and received painful injuries about his head. He was taken to the company's hospital at Moberly.

M. H. Holcomb, the lumberman, has sold his residence property to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney J. F. Pratt, and will rebuild, in Kellogg's addition, a domicile for himself and also one for his son, Roy. Thus Keytesville's boom continues to boom.

The COURIER deeply regrets to hear that Mrs. David Nelson of Garden City, Mo., formerly Miss Della Shackelford of six miles northeast of Brunswick, is dangerously ill of stomach trouble, and that the worst is feared by her friends and relatives.

Through an oversight the COURIER last week stated that only two children—Miss Grace and Henry B.—survived the late Dr. James A. Egan. Instead of being but two children there are three—two girls and a boy, Miss Grace, Henry B. and Miss Gussie.

The town of Katy is in the southern part of Texas on the M., K. & T. Ry. The other day a brakeman stuck his head in the coach door and announced: "Change for Katy." A farmer put his hand in his pocket and said: "I don't know her, but here is fifty cents."

Elbert Lamkin, who tills the soil on the farm of an aunt near Bucklin, Linn county, is visiting his brother, Z. T. Lamkin, our jovial circuit clerk.

Elbert isn't as fat as Zack, which may be accounted for from the fact that he takes his meals in Linn county instead of Chariton county.

B. F. Johnson, one of the COURIER's highly esteemed farmer friends of near Brunswick, came down to the capital last Saturday and went out three miles northeast of this place to visit the family of his brother-in-law, Fred Burnes, Mrs. Burnes being Mr. Johnson's sister.

Burglars effected an entrance to I. H. McKittrick & Co's store in Keytesville, Saturday night, by prying open the rear door. The only thing positively missed was between $6 and $7, taken from a purse in the money drawer. Two grips were packed with various articles of merchandise, but it seems the thieves were frightened away and left the grips on the counter.

The Brunswick papers of last week recorded the death of Andrew R. Lew, the venerable father of J. E. Lewis of five miles west of Brunswick and of Capt. F. M. Lewis of Sumner. "Grandpa" Lewis was a native of Ohio, but had made his home in this county for the past 12 years. He was a conscientious member of the Baptist church at Bluff Point, and was in his 88th year when called to an upper and better world.

Bert Worsham has withdrawn from the race for township constable, and desires, through the columns of the COURIER, to express his lasting gratitude to the friends who had accorded him such a cordial support up to the time of his withdrawal.

Go to Jos. F. Hansman and call for his 1891 hand-made Bourbon. You will find it matured well, palatable and strictly pure.

The editor of the COURIER is not a physician, but he believes the kind of fits Jim Gallemore has when the COURIER is spoken of in complimentary terms, are dog fits. If little Jimmie isn't very careful he will expire in one of those convulsions some of these days.

Money to Loan on short notice on unincumbered farm lands at from five and one-half to seven per cent annual interest. O. B. ANDERSON, W. H. LEWIS, Keytesville, Mo. Office in court-house.

The Friday Afternoon club, alias Ladies' Social exchange, was entertained, Friday afternoon, by Mrs. H. L. Sneed. A lively scene took place when a progressive needle-threading contest was inaugurated. Mrs. B. Hughes was awarded the prize—a bunch of hyacinths and narcissuses. Choice refreshments were served.

Mrs. Wm. Dewey, slightly colored, was fined $2.50 and trimmings in Mayor L. N. Dempsey's court last Saturday night for disturbing the peace by unduly exercising her lungs, while under the influence of John Barleycorn. She claimed that her husband was beating her. He, too, was arrested, but was considered not guilty by Mayor Dempsey and was discharged.

Little Jimmie Gallemore pleads with us not to call him an ass any more. Sorry he can't accommodate you, little Jimmie, for the editor of the COURIER has a way of calling things by their right names. That is why he calls a spade a spade and an ass an ass. If you don't want to be called an ass, little Jimmie, quit making an ass of yourself.

The COURIER took occasion two weeks ago to allude to the Salisbury Press-Spectator "as one of the best country weeklies we ever saw published outside of a county seat." How sad the thought! But it seems our sweetness was lost on the desert, or was like casting pearls before swine. Shame on you, Brother Gallemore, for treating our "magnimity" with such haughty scorn! We assure you, sir, that we were sincere, but since you don't appreciate our kind words for the P.-S. we hasten to retract them before you are seized with another convulsion.

Sam'l Obetz, who has charge of Painter Bros.' huxter department at Mendon, bought nearly a thousand pounds of poultry from W. J. Bogard of Salt Creek township a few days ago. There were 13 turkeys and 250 chickens. This is a showing that not many farmers in Chariton county can make, notwithstanding there is nothing now raised on the farm that pays better than poultry in proportion to the capital invested. By the way, Mr. Bogard has bought the Wm. Woods farm just on the southern outskirts of Mendon, and has taken possession of his new home. Mr. Woods having moved to Lee's Summit, Mo. Mr. B. Salt Creek township farm will be conducted by his son, Lent.

If the Chariton County Republican should uncork the threatened vial of wrath it has bottled up for the county court, because the court does not do something or has done something (the Republican don't seem to know just exactly what) that honorable body might as well prepare to bid farewell to this vain world of tears; but ere the court departs hence the editor of the Republican will have succumbed to an attack of white liver trouble. A coward speaks by insinuation and threatens; a brave man uses unmistakable language and executes. It is a burning shame that Editor Fenstermaker should keep the court in such awful suspense! Remove the cork from your diminutive receptacle of indignation, sir, shoot, or give up the gun.

If any of our friends ever intend to speak in terms of praise of the COURIER, we would suggest, in order to keep peace in the journalistic family in Chariton county, that they first get permission from J. G. Gallemore of the Salisbury Press-Spectator. Gallemore imagines he is to the newspapers of Chariton county what Czar Reed is to the lower house of congress.

Miss Elsie Holcomb, one of Keytesville's most amiable and accomplished young ladies, was the hostess of the Progressive Carom club last Friday night, much to the delight of her guests. The prizes of the evening—two miniature oil paintings, one a bunch of pansies and the other a marine scene—were won by John P. O'Shaughnessy and Miss Anne Grinstead, respectively. The awards were all the more appreciated on account of being the artistic productions of Miss Elsie's paint brush. Ice-cream, fruit salad and stuffed dates constituted the evening's refreshments.

J. G. Gallemore of the Salisbury Press-Spectator says that his "stuck-up" friends in Salisbury can't help what he does and should not be made to suffer because he is a "small potato." That's true, little Jimmie, and we beg the pardon of your "friends" if we have ever accused them of being responsible for any of your "small potato" or assinine acts. Your friends ought to, and doubtless do, thank their Maker, morning, noon and night that they are not to blame for your contemptible littleness, petty jealousy and despicable penuriousness. As to how your friends can ever amount to anything and associate with you is a problem which the dim future alone can solve.

Roy Williams, a colored boy about 10 years old, who left here last spring with Wm. Lessley's family and went to Welch, I. T. to make his home, left the territory on Thanksgiving day and came as far as Kansas City on his way home. He stayed in Kansas City until last Monday when he started to beat his way to Keytesville on a freight train—riding on the brake-beams, bumpers, or anywhere he could hang on. Monday was a very cold day and when the train on which Roy was riding reached Carrollton the boy was so cold he could hold on no longer and fell off. He was picked up and carried into the Wabash depot and on examination it was found that both his hands and his arms half way up to the elbows were frozen, and in falling from his perch on one of the cars he had cut quite a gash in his head. On finding out who he was and where he lived the authorities at Carrollton telegraphed the above facts to Keytesville, and Mr. M. H. Holcomb answered back to purchase the boy a ticket and send him on to this place, which was done and Roy reached home Tuesday. He is now getting along as well as possible and will soon be all right again.

We would modestly suggest to our contemporary, the Keytesville Signal, that when it wants to know anything about the "family affairs" of the editor of the COURIER, that it come to headquarters. Miss Maud Dyer had never been "adopted by the family of C. P. Vandiver and wife," nor was her "health" in any worse condition when she left Keytesville than when she came. One would be led to believe from an article, which appeared in last week's Signal, that Miss Dyer, after having been "adopted by the family of C. P. Vandiver and wife," that her health failed, and in consequence she was required to find another home. Miss Dyer was employed by Mrs. C. P. Vandiver to do general house-work, and was paid wages for her services. The first we ever knew of her "adoption by the family of C. P. Vandiver and wife" was when the Signal told us about it last week. There are some newspapers that know more about other people's business than other people know themselves. The COURIER used to scap the Signal gang occasionally, but the game was not worth our waste of time. We have long since been attending strictly to our own business, of which we have a great deal, regardless of the Signal's existence, and we cannot help thinking that our contemporary would fare better if it would also remove its proboscis from the COURIER's affairs, family or otherwise.

Chariton County Sunday-School Convention.

The annual convention of the Chariton County Sunday-school association was held in the Christian church of this city on the third and fourth insts., in accordance with notice given in this and other papers of the county. The attendance, on account of the meeting at the Presbyterian church, and more on account of the unexpected snow-storm, was small. The delegates seemed in earnest and enjoyed the addresses of Dr. A. P. George, the state superintendent. Brunswick was well represented—better, in fact, than any other part of the county, and secured the next session of the convention. The date of the Brunswick meeting will be fixed by the state executive committee, of which Mr. F. P. Hays of St. Louis is chairman.
